

Coronavirus Documentary 2020 – Art Contest

Well... we didn't get snow, but certainly got a blizzard! You're off for the next two weeks for the Coronavirus Quarantine. While we know there are going to be lots of video games played, there are going to be times when you're bored and just maybe... wish you were back at school. Right?!

In all honesty, this is history guys and gals... this has never been done before, nor have we ever seen anything like it! The crazy part is it is here and you're living it!! This is one of those stories, you'll tell your grandchildren years from now.

Here is our art challenge to you for the next two weeks...

Create a visual documentary!

- Either through drawings or photographs, document your next two weeks.
- Be creative... don't just take a picture of the video game screen or your bed (because you slept a lot).
- Think about the impact of this event (quarantine) has locally, nationally, globally.
- What does it look like outside? At the store? At the mall? In your house?
- Can you document the emotions other people feel during this time? How about you? What emotions do you feel?
- What other issues arise during this time?
- What good can you show from this event?

Note: Please know that we cannot make you do this, nor are we going to grade it, but we can... make it a competition for prizes! So... our challenge to you is this... get up, get out, be creative, and have fun!

The best student submissions in each category
(Drawing and Photos) will win a $25 gift card to a place of his/her choice.

Good Luck!!
